LAKE RESIDENTS FAVOR PISTAKEE LAKE DAM SITE

Maintenance of Water Level and Flood Control are Planned

Whether the new dam to be built by the state in the Fox River should be located at a point north of Johnsbury and just below the mouth of Pistakee Lake, as was contemplated by last week's survey, or at some point lower in the valley near McHenry and the old dam was the question which developed a clash of interests between the Lake and McHenry county dwellers in the Fox River valley this week. The appropriation as passed by the legislature called for the repair of the McHenry dam and the construction of a new dam with a lock and spillway to control the spring floods.

It was pointed out by J. C. James, local member of the Fox River Conservancy district, that the proposed location between Johnsbury and the mouth of the Pistakee lake was the logical one for the new dam since it would best allow the control of the waters of the lakes, and that, if the dam were to be placed in the Fox River just above McHenry it would be necessary to flood a large amount of property between McHenry and Pistakee lake in order to maintain the required lake levels.

The bill which passed the legislature provides that the dam at McHenry be repaired, thus giving McHenry the required water levels. The old dam there, however, had no spillway, and did not allow for the drawing off of water early in the season, or the retention of the spring flood waters which this year augmented the waters of the lower system and added to the Mississippi valley disaster, while, at the same time, the levels of the lakes in the upper Fox River valley were reduced to a lower point than they have been for many years.

The new dam is a part of a comprehensive program of flood and drainage control and its chief supporter, Representative Bill Weiss, is receiving the commendation both of the residents of the upper lakes and of the members of the Conservancy board.

It was claimed by lake residents to take care of their dam and did that in the past the river people failed to take care of their dam and did not use it to the benefit of all concerned. Since it was a private enterprise maintained by private funds they allowed the farmers in the region to blow up the old dam and showed an unwillingness to maintain the water of the upper lakes at the proper level, according to the lake residents. It was also pointed out that the old dam at McHenry would maintain the needed level for the portion of the river residents south of Johnsbury and the upper dam would protect their property from spring flooding.

Summer Resident Dies As Auto Overturns

Edward Coyne, for many years a summer resident at the Crandall subdivision at Lake Catherine where he owned a cottage, met death in an auto accident at Fond du Lac, Wis., July 11th. The car in which Coyne, together with a companion, was traveling, skidded and, hitting a culvert, overturned, killing Coyne instantly. His companion was thrown 50 feet in the air but escaped death. Coyne's death was due to the fact that the steering wheel was driven through his body.

Funeral services were held in Chicago Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Less Crandall, Miss Elizabeth Webb, and Mrs. Frank Hunt went in to the city to attend the obsequies. Three sisters, the Misses Maude, Katherine and Theresa Coyne survive the deceased.

Seventh Annual Farm Bureau Picnic Is Accorded A Success

In spite of the rain which held the attendance down below the mark it would normally have reached, the seventh annual farmers' picnic held at Diamond Lake last Wednesday drew a big crowd that enjoyed every minute of the day crowded with activities.

The event was enlivened throughout the day by music provided by the peppy band from the Allendale school and the afternoon program was well planned and perfectly executed. The vaudeville acts by the Victor LaSalle and Loretta four and Sunny Jim, the clown acrobat brought rounds of applause.

Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation was the principal speaker of the day and his address was well worth while.

The old fiddlers contest conducted by Tommie Dandurand from WLS was one of the features of the afternoon in spite of the fact that there were but two entries, Alfred Ames and Hy Gleason.

A number of other events, each carrying an appropriate prize, were arranged by the committee. The oldest Farm Bureau members present ent was J. J. Barnstable, 71 years old, from Lake Villa, and the youngest was Lee Kane of Diamond Lake. The prize for the member coming the farthest went to F. H. Faulkner of Russell who traveled thirty miles to attend the festivities. The largest was J. J. Yore who tipped the scales at 268 pounds.

The hog calling prize was won by Mrs. Ernest Moore of Grays Lake who lead a large field of masculine entries including such famous callers as Bob Rouse, Jack Barrett, and Rod Swift. Mrs. August Batz of Mundelein carried off the prize in the chicken calling contest.

Charles Bratzke and son won first place in the horseshoe tournament and J. J. Yore and Tom Hoffman were second.

The evening shower held up the proceedings for a short time but the program was resumed when the rain ceased and the downpour seemed to have no effect on the evening's attendance.

Both pavilions were utilized for the crowds which taxed the capacity of the dancing floors. Thomas J. Owen, the famous radio barn dance caller officiated at the old time dance.

HIKES 20 MILES TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE ANTIOCH NEWS

Waukegan Citizen Arrives Here After Twenty Mile Stroll

Nicholas M. Keller, Commissioner of Public Works of Waukegan and well known long distance hiker, arrived in Antioch Friday evening, having hiked the entire twenty miles between here and Waukegan, and enrolled as a subscriber to the Antioch News. While the News has always been a popular paper, still it is unusual for people to walk twenty miles to subscribe.

Mr. Keller left the city hall at Waukegan at 7 o'clock p. m., daylight saving time and arrived in Antioch at 11:52 p. m., making a time of 4 hours and 52 minutes on the hike. When asked upon his arrival here if he were fatigued, Mr. Keller said, "No, I have never smoked" and expressed a belief that he could walk many more miles without becoming weary. The Commissioner, who was formerly one of Marquette University's star athletes, is very much interested in the revival of interest in walking which has recently been felt in Waukegan and vicinity, and plans to head many walking tours.

His mother and sister and Mr. and Mrs. Christenson of Waukegan drove over to Antioch and Commissioner Keller returned to Waukegan with them, after subscribing to the News and answering the many questions of acquaintances here who were much interested in his exploit.

E. B. Williams Pays 41st Subscription To The Antioch News

Paying subscription to the Antioch News is an everyday occurrence these days, but paying for the 41st time is unusual, to say the least. Mr. E. B. Williams, veteran retired merchant of Antioch, called at the News office yesterday to pay his subscription for the coming year. He has been a reader of the News since its establishment nearly 41 years ago and has here many years before Antioch had a newspaper, having come to this locality in the forties.

Mr. Williams has to his credit an honorable and successful business career extending over a period of more than 50 years. In 1921 he retired from active business and the store founded by Mr. E. B. Williams and his brother, D. A. Williams is being continued by Mr. E. B. Williams' son, W. R. Williams, under the firm name of Williams Bros.

WORK IS BEGUN ON NEW CORONA PEN BUILDING

Construction of Modern Factory Unit to Be Rushed

Ground was broken Monday for the erection of the new plant of the Corona Fountain Pen Company on North Avenue. Plans and specifications are completed and it is expected that the contract for the erection of the modern factory building which is to be constructed on the site will be let within a very short time.

Building operations are to be rushed to completion and it is the hope of the company to have the building completed within three months.

The plans specify a modern fireproof steel and brick structure, with every convenience for a first class up to date factory. The building is to be 60 by 98 ft. and is to be electrically equipped. It is designed to accommodate a working force of approximately 100 people and to permit the addition of another and similar unit as the occasion demands.

The Corona Pen Company, which now has its headquarters at Janesville was recently reorganized under the leadership of C. K. Anderson of this place. The company is the possessor of valuable patents which make their product one of the best of its sort on the market.

ROBBERS LOOT RADTKE BARBER SHOP OF $300

Thieves Get Haul of Equipment, Tools and Supplies

Thieves entered the Radtke Barber shop on Main street last night and made way with more than $300 worth of tools, equipment and supplies.

When Maurice Radtke, one of the owners of the shop, arrived at the place this morning he found the glass in the back door broken in and the room in disarray. Investigation showed that all of the razors, clippers, scissors, combs and other barber tools possessed by the firm had been stolen. Loss in equipment was estimated to be in excess of $150.00. A number of boxes of cigars and several cartons of cigarettes were also gone, along with a small sum of money estimated around $5.00 which had been left in the cash register the evening before.

It is assumed that the robbery took place some time between 2:00 and 4:00 o'clock as there were many people on the street early in the evening, and the dogs belonging to Art Dibble, which were penned up back of the shop, began to bark around 4 a. m. From the fact that a slot machine weighing in the neighborhood of 150 lbs. was taken it was assumed that there were at least two men in the party. Thus far no clue to their identity has been discovered.

GRAND JURY WILL HEAR EVIDENCE IN DEFAULT CASES

Col. A. V. Smith Arraigns Bracher, Bairstow And Others for Shortage

A special grand jury ordered by Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards on petition of State Attorney Smith yesterday began investigation of the $106,557.69 shortage in the account of County Treasurer Roy Bracher and the $49,695.89 shortage in the accounts of George H. Bairstow, former supervisor of Waukegan township. D. T. Aishuler of Waukegan was named foreman of the grand jury.

Judge Edwards, in his charge to the jury, which lengthy and contained sensational information, impressed on the jurors that their duty is a serious one as this is a most important investigation.

The court cautioned the grand jury about disclosing secrets of the jury room, warning the jurors that the court had the power to impose a fine not exceeding $50 upon any member divulging information regarding evidence heard.

In connection with the county treasury shortage of $106,557.69, Col. Smith will endeavor to have the following persons named in true bills, charging conspiracy to embezzle county funds:

County Treasurer Bracher; Ira E. Pearall, former county treasurer; Harold Martin, former vice president of the defunct Security bank; Caleb A. Busick, Winnetka, a former Waukegan real estate dealer, and secretary-treasurer of the Barrington Oil company; Clark Nye, former vice president of the First National bank in Eureka, Kansas.

WORKMAN PLUNGES TO DEATH FROM 20 FT. SCAFFOLD

Roger Jackson Is Fatally Injured—Companion Escapes Death

Roger Jackson, 29, who resided on the Geneva road, a mile and a half northeast of the village of Bristol, met death suddenly last Friday when he fell from a scaffolding upon which he and a companion were working. Jackson was employed by Ernest Knapp who was engaged in tearing down the old Hosmer church building, recently sold to Samuel Knapp of Bristol.

One section of the work had been completed and, while the men were preparing to tear the scaffolding on the side down, Jackson, together with Charles Hanson of Bristol, mounted the scaffolding on the other side, which was supposedly safe, to begin work there. Both sections came down at the same time. Jackson, who landed across a beam was injured internally.

He was taken to his home and a doctor summoned at once but an examination showed that he was injured internally and he died in a short time.

Hanson, who also fell from the scaffolding, a distance of 20 feet, suffered a severe cut across the back of the head and was badly bruised but his condition is not considered dangerous.

Jackson is survived by a wife and three small children, also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Jackson; one sister, Mrs. Mary Butrick of Bristol; one brother, Clyde of Stockport, Ohio; and numerous other relatives.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday with Reverend Johnson officiating. Interment was at North Bristol cemetery.

Paving Progresses Rapidly in Village

Paving operations on Lake street have been completed and work was begun this week on Victoria street. Payment of the additional cost for cement to construct a strip of what is known as controlled concrete was made by the Antioch Oil Station, in order that a strip of paving half of the width of the street and extending from the warehouse to the corner might be opened to traffic Saturday. The rest of the street will be opened early in August.

Dr. J. J. D. Hall, noted traveler and religious adviser will speak over the W. L. C. O., the Camp Lake radio station, at 3 o'clock daylight saving time next Sunday afternoon. S. E. Pollock of Antioch will also appear on the program with a select group of religious numbers on the corner.

BONDSMEN CALLED TO RECOVER FUND DUE LAKE COUNTY

Friends of Treas. Bracher Pledge Selves in Effort to Raise $100,000

Assertions, official and otherwise, that States Attorney A. V. Smith intended to take action in court to recover from the bondsmen the funds lacking in the account of Treasurer Roy Bracher, were verified yesterday by the filing of praecipe in three separate suits. The three sets of bondsmen, those on the Bracher bond between 1916 and 1922, those on the Pearall bond from 1922 and 1926 and the present bondsmen were each named in a separate suit to recover $100,000.

Bracher's Friends to Replace Fund

That the matter would not go to court is considered probable at this time as an amount of money in excess of $75,000 has been guaranteed by friends to cover the shortage. The notes will be secured by property in the possession of Bracher, chiefly by Diamond Lake subdivision for which he is negotiating a sale which will net an amount probably in excess of $75,000.

Liability of Bondsmen to be Learned

In the event that the shortage is not covered Attorney Smith expects by the three suits to determine which of the set of bondsmen is liable. The amount of the bond covering the 1916 to 1922 period is $300,000 and the signers were C. W. Dyer, H. C. Burnett, Geo. W. Sells, Fred W. Buck, David T. Webb, Norman H. Brown, C. M. Brown and Charles E. Staley.

On the Pearall bond for $400,000 covering the 1922 to 1926 period, H. Durr, Charles E. Staley, Arthur E. Zitt, H. C. Burnett, William D. Dalziel, James T. Hayes, Willard Ward, Giles S. Farmer, George Strang and Harold Martin were signers.

On the Bracher bond for $500,000 covering the present period the signers were George Renchan, J. F. Bidinger, Frank Cory, F. H. Just, G. T. McKilliam, Theodore J. Stahl, F. G. Smith, W. J. Smith, A. H. Franzen, William A. Roising and M. J. Honey.

Bracher's Successor Discussed

Supervisor Arthur W. Vercoe, chairman of the finance committee, announced yesterday that the committee would recommend to the board of supervisors at a special session to be held at an early date that Jay B. Morse, deputy county clerk, be appointed to succeed Mr. Bracher. Morse, however, has not as yet consented to accept the position.

Chilean Emissaries Visit Dairy Herds On Lake Co. Farms

Lake county had the distinction of entertaining two very distinguished agriculturalists last week and the of receiving favorable comment from them when Dr. Charles Mohr and father, who are on a four months tour of the United States and Europe, made a tour of the county with Farm Adviser H. C. Glickerson. The visitors stated that, in all their tour, they had not seen such wonderful cattle as they observed in Lake county.

The two gentlemen came as the emissaries of the Chilean government to study bovine tuberculosis eradication and animal husbandry in this country.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington requested the Lake County Farm Bureau to show Dr. Mohr and his father the best herds in the county and Dr. J. J. Lister of Libertyville and H. C. Glickerson spent the day in a tour of the county's prize herds.

They were shown the Guernseys at Lindenhurst and Lasker Farms, the Ayrshires at Spiney Run Farm, Short Horns at the Thomas Wilson farm, Brown Swiss at Hawthorn Farm, Jerseys at Ravine Farm and Holsteins at Rasmussen's.

The senior Mohr has a herd of one thousand milch cows in Chile and uses the entire production in the manufacture of butter and cheese.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Fifty men from Springfield and adjoining towns have gone to Jefferson Barracks to attend the month's training at the Citizens' Military Training camp. Men are registered from New Berlin, Divernon, Elverton, Pleasant Plains, Sherman, Thayer, Buffalo Hart, Buffalo, Williamsville, and Chatham.

Commission men suggest that the farmers haul their hogs to market at night since the recent excessive heat has caused the loss of hogs en route to the yards. Stock will be received at the yards any time during the night and if the owners desire it, the animals will be fed and cared for the next morning by the commission men.

The Springfield Automobile club has launched a drive for 300 members. It is hoped that new members secured will assure victory in the tri-city contest with Alton and Deatur.

Leading the list of contesting pens of five hens each, in the American, Asiatic and English classes at the egg-laying contest conducted at Quincy, Kankakee and Murphysboro by the Illinois department of agriculture, five Barred Plymouth Rocks, laying 115 eggs in 30 days, won the June cup for the highest pen production of the heavy breeds. They are owned by Guy S. Kuykendall, West Frankfort, Illinois, and are on test at Kankakee. Five Rhode Island Reds, owned by E. W. Mahood, Webster Grove, Missouri, laying 110 finished second. They are on test at Murphysboro.

At the Kankakee plant, according to the reports forwarded to Director Stanard, of the department of agriculture, a White Leghorn entered by J. Earl Auld, Morning Sun, Iowa, laid consistently for 97 consecutive days, including June 30, the best continuous performance recorded during the contest. Poultry fanciers are watching this entry as a potential record breaker.

Five White Leghorns, from Berea, Ohio, owned by the Gaud Poultry farm, and contesting at Kankakee, produced 133 eggs during the month, thereby winning the cup for the best pen performance in the Mediterranean class.

At Murphysboro, Will G. Shaw's White Leghorn entry laid an egg a day during the 30 days. Another bird of the same breed, at Kankakee, owned by J. Earl Auld, Morning Sun, Iowa, also qualified for the egg-a-day club.

A picked staff of fifteen representatives of the Illinois department of agriculture assembled in the office of Director Stanard and received instructions and assignments authorizing them to investigate the conduct of all the fairs in Illinois that participate in funds appropriated by the legislature for the partial payment of premiums.

Regulations under which the fairs must be conducted in order to successfully claim a portion of this appropriation are specified in the Act, and are more thoroughly explained on a department order that is issued to all the fairs concerned and to the inspectors assigned to serve them. Briefly, they forbid bookmaking or any other form of race track gambling, wheeling, etc., that can be manipulated unfairly; indecent shows and intoxicants.

Inspectors selected for this service are: Walter G. Beck, Pinckneyville; John Muirhead, Danville; M. M. Emerick, Springfield; William Franz, Freeport; Ed LaRoche, Memence; A. R. McKellar, Vandalia; A. R. Lewis, Morrison; Ed Sheehan, East St. Louis; William Hewitt, Mattoon; A. M. Nelson, Chicago; Fred Harris, Mattoon; A. H. Sommers, Chicago; Harrison Kennicott, Des Plaines; Don Zinn, Flanagan, and Ben Hobson, Chicago.

Veterans of the World War are already noticeable in their numbers and power in the Illinois State legislature. More than twenty members of the 55th session are veterans of that conflict. Fekety of East St. Louis, Waller of Jackson, Bruer of Pontiac, and Wright of Lawrence are among the outstanding men who saw service in France and Germany, and now represent the people at Springfield.

Without exception, these members who underwent army discipline and saw big movements and affairs at first hand have been noticeable in this session for their broad vision in their votes on legislation. A measure that was in the interest of all the people and at the same time was marked as a forward step invariably received their support. Soldiers learned to know and value transpor-lation and roads. They saw in France roads that the Romans built, and therefore they know the importance of permanence. Thus keeping advance step with Illinois people in their desire for permanent roads, these soldier members have consistently supported the road program that the people have shown they want for Illinois.

Wright of Lawrence county and the 48th district is serving his first term with honor to his people and distinction to himself. He was a captain in the state militia at the outbreak of the World War. He saw no quick opportunity for service, resigned his commission and enlisted as a truck private in the National army. He sailed with his organization in May, 1918, and with the Sixth Division saw service in France and with that division was a part of the army of occupation when hostilities closed. His merits were recognized by promotion to corporal, then sergeant, second and first lieutenant, and was retired as a captain in the Reserve.

Wright of Lawrence, as a member of five important House committees, has attracted and held attention in this session. His balance of judgment has been remarked, and his fellow members in committee and on the floor of the House have observed a broadness of view in legislation that reflects great credit upon the people of his district. All Illinois citizens realize that there is no place for party prejudices in legislation, and that all people of Illinois have to live under the same law. Therefore, it is pleasing to old observers here that there has come into the popular house of the State legislature a fresh atmosphere that is independent of pettiness, and has vision to forecast the future. Wright of Lawrence stands with a new deal in the interest of the whole people, and future sessions of the legislature would be enriched by an increase of his kind.

Derby Race at Palace Is Event of Season

The Derby held recently at the Antioch Palace was one of the big events on the Palace program for the season. The ballroom was made into a race track and everything connected with a big racing scene was furnished that evening.

In the feature race of the evening four couples were entered, Phil Anderson and Miss Margaret Scholke, Gordon Winter and Miss Gladys Davis, Roger Burch and Miss Abt, Edward Lanuz and Miss Hilma Rusling. Judges of the race were Mr. R. C. Abt, Mr. Williams and Mr. Runyard. Nick Bruck acted as official time keeper and William Ashton as starter.

The racers traveled around the track five times and the judges selected as winners Mr. Anderson and Miss Scholke, as seconds, Mr. Winter and Miss Davis, and Mr. Burch and Miss Abt for third place. They also gave honorable mention to Mr. Lanuz and Miss Howling who came in fourth.

The winning couple held fourth position in the race but on the signal to go they were off to a lead which was never overcome by the other contestants and gained one full lap on the other racers in the five times around the track.

Over five hundred people attended the racing scene and stood on the side lines to cheer the racers on their way.

HAPPENINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS

Rose Smith, 14 year old Chicago girl who is residing this summer with her parents in their summer home in the White Wood subdivision at Long Lake recently won the distinction of being the first girl to swim across the lake, a distance of three miles. No effort was made to gain speed in the swim but Miss Smith made the distance in 1 hour and 35 minutes.

John Bloomer of Chicago received serious internal injuries the last of the week when he fell off from a scaffold from which he had been working. He was taken to Libertyville where he received emergency treatment.

Almee Semple McPherson speaking at Zion in what at first appeared to be an uneventful engagement drew fire from Overseer Voliva last week. The Overseer warned traitorous followers that they would either have to repent of their conduct in going to hear her or be read out of the church of Zion.

The McHenry American Legion post is to sponsor a benefit dance to gain money to replace the fire truck wrecked in a recent accident. Three of the members of the fire department who were hurt in the accident are still incapacitated by their injuries and will be unable to work for several months.

Many of the newspapers of nearby towns carry mention of gifts of flowers sent to the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild. Flowers are received by this organization at Gate 16 of the Chicago station of the Northwestern Railroad and at the east concourse of the Union station. Distribution of the flowers is made by the guild to the sick in hospitals and poor house. It is said by the workers that the children in the poorer districts of Chicago are more eager to get a flower or two than they are for candy, ice cream, or any of the things customarily valued by little folks.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith has announced the appointment of Constable George Streid of Zion as the new chief of the liquor raiding squad. Streid was formerly assistant chief of police of Zion and was succeeded by Conrad A. Bruene, late dry squad leader working out of the state's attorney's office.

By the will of the late John W. Thompson, wealthy owner of the Thompson chain of restaurants who died a few weeks ago, a number of charitable and social service institutions were benefited. Bequests were made to the Glenwood Home for Boys, Chicago; Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum, Allendale school, Lake Villa; Glenwood Manual, Chicago; Bethesda church at Rockridge, Batt, Va., and Washington and Lee University.

Village authorities at Mundelein were called upon this week to regulate horse traffic in their bailiwick. Complaint was made to the village board that horses being used at Diamond Lake by a man that rents the animals to people who frequent the resort were being ridden in the crowded roadways in such a fashion as to endanger the lives and limbs of the people. It was decided to instruct Marshal Tiffany to arrest the riders and hold them for reckless driving.

The attorney general of the state of Wisconsin has recently ruled that private owners have no lawful right to obstruct the lakes of Wisconsin from use by the public through construction of fences across pathways or by any means that would keep the waters out of public use. This will mean the opening of hundreds of Wisconsin lakes now excluded to the public.

Andrew Nelson and Paul Coquillette of Aldine, and John Austin of Harvard were captured at the "Log Cabin" barbecue stand near Harvard recently when they attempted to clarify the place. The stand had raided on a Saturday night previously, and Officer McPherson was placed on guard and ordered them as they attempted to advance for the third time. In the end a saved-off shot

St. Ignatius' Choir And Friends Make Expedition to Chicago

Last Monday morning promptly at 6 a. m. the members of St. Ignatius' church and chosen friends met in front of the church to start on what later became a famous picnic. The members of the choir were called "Saints" to distinguish them from the Acolytes. The boys are called "Cherubim" and the girl members of the choir "Seraphim". The following "Cherubim" were among those present: Rev. Dixon, H. R. Smith, Harlo Cribb, Ralph Bowman of Galesburg, Ill., Graciel Lasco, Wallis Murrie, Henry Filson, Homer Pau-cett, Elvin Keulman, Richard Chian, William Keulman, Duster Van Patten, Allen Hanke, Leslie Hanke, and George Monier. The "Seraphim" present were Mrs. C. E. Dixon, Mrs. J. C. Nixon, Mrs. H. R. Smith, Marian Smith, Mrs. Harriet Basleng, of Lake Villa, Lucille Cobellie, Lillian Wells, Louise Sheehan, Kathaleen Bowman of Galesburg, Ill., Margaret Korogora of Lake Villa.

Misfortune attempted to overtake the party at the beginning of their undertaking. A truck which had been taken in by the Wetzel garage on a trade the day before had been loaned the picnicers without guarantee as to condition and proved later to be in "bad condition." At Grayslake Harlo Cribb was summoned to the rescue of the party and his arrival gave a fortuitous turn to the expedition.

The party aimed at South Haven or St. Joe where the members of the choir were eager to investigate the House of David. Both boats were missed and the picnic party proceeded to lunch at Lincoln Park, Chicago, and investigate the Zoo. Then the municipal pier and a boat trip to Jackson park for a swim were the order of the day. Later an hour was spent on the "horses" and the "whip" at the pier and an expedition was made to the Chicago movie house.

After the theatre the party resumed their bus trip, stopping at Dam No. 4 in the forest preserve to eat the balance of the lunch they had brought and to ride on the merry-go-round. Those who went on the expedition were loud in their praise of the picnic and are working another at an early date.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF ANTIOCH DIES

R. D. Emmons Ends Long Life of Service to Community at the Advanced Age of 96

Funeral services for Hockwell Dean Emmons who died at his home in Antioch on Sunday, July 17th, were held Wednesday, July 20th, at the residence with interment at Hillside cemetery, the Rev. A. M. Krahll officiating.

At the time of his death Mr. Emmons, who was 96 years old, was the oldest living resident of Lake County. He came to Antioch when he was twelve years of age and has lived here continuously with the exception of four years spent in California during the gold rush in 1849.

He was united in marriage on November 16, 1859 to Sarah Marie Ham and to this union were born four children, Carl, Charles, Artie and Alice.

Until ill health confined him to his bed nine weeks ago Mr. Emmons was vitally interested in the advances shown by the village of Antioch and often spoke of Antioch as he first saw it with only three log cabins and eight families. From that early day when he came to the village as a pioneer Mr. Emmons has been identified with the best interests of the community and has had a large share in molding its history.

For many years he kept a general store, which he combined with a post office on the site where the Reeves Drug store now stands. During his active years he held the posts of road commissioner, postmaster and member of the board of supervisors of the county. He was one of the originators of the Christian church in Antioch, and both during his active years and the later years when he had retired from business, he took part in the furtherance of religious and philanthropic activities of the community.

Although he had been inactive for the past thirty years, he enjoyed good health up to the time that he was taken ill and was in full possession of his faculties until Sunday morning when he lapsed into an unconsciousness resulting in death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, Sarah Marie Emmons, and two daughters, Mrs. L. B. Grice and Miss Alice Emmons, both of Antioch.

At The Churches

Methodist Church Notes
The Lord's Prayer is the one prayer in which all nations of the world, all denominations can join in repeating together, yet of all the known prayers it is perhaps the least understood. Next Sunday morning Rev. Krahll of the Methodist church will preach on the third of the series dealing with this prayer, pointing out the prayer is not a series of vain of every individual who acknowledges petitions but rather meets the need of God as the Father of all mankind. That many are finding it helpful is evidenced by the increased attendance each Sunday. You are invited to come.

The Ladies Aid are quite busy preparing for the Mid Summer Bazaar which will be held in the store formerly occupied by Hillebrand and Shultz, on Thursday, July 28. Dinner will be served at noon and tea in the afternoon. A large variety of fancy goods will be on display.

Mrs. Drucilla Ferris, the president of the Aid predicts that the bazaar next Thursday will surpass the efforts of any previous year. The assortment of fancy goods is quite large and offers the widest selection. Pillow cases, hand towels, covers of various kinds as well as the traditional hot pad will be found in numbers. Several hand sewed quilts, which would be most welcome addition to the hope chest of any prospective bride will be an exhibition and sold at the close of the bazaar. "Old Lady Pockets," with each pocket filled with a surprise for the children will be on hand again this year. Many youngsters will be made happy by this old lady.

Burial Services Held at Hillside Cemetery for Mrs. Arthur Imig. Formerly Miss Neva French preparation for the great Corporate Communion Sunday morning, July 31st. At 8 a. m. Sunday there will be a breakfast served at the Rectory after the manner of the ancient Agapes of the early Christian church.

Dr. Hall is one of the most vital and inspiring preachers of the Christian religion in America today and he stands as a great flaming witness against the world, the flesh, and the devil. He reminds those who hear him of the character of St. Paul the Apostle and St. John the Baptist, those prophets of old. Dr. Hall is in demand all over the Country and comes to us from North Carolina. He has had a great pastoral experience and was chaplain of the Alabama State Prison for several years and head of Galilee Mission, Philadelphia, for over a decade. He is beloved by all the countless thousands that know him and it is almost impossible for him to walk through the streets of any great city of this land without meeting some of those men and women he has aided on life's way in the name of Christ. Dr. Hall will lay hands on the sick and infirm if they so desire. He may be seen for private consultation at the Rectory next to the church at any time. It is hoped that many who have personal problems or doubts that worry them will take advantage of this opportunity to consult with an expert on the matters of the spirit.

Needless to say all are welcome and urged to share with us this week of Inspiration and renewed consecration to the Person of Jesus Christ and His Church.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"LIFE" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 17.

The Golden Text was from Proverbs 16:22, "Understanding is a well-spring of life unto him that hath it."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6:24, 25, 33).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The fact is, food does not affect the absolute life of man, and this becomes self-evident, when we learn that God is our life. Because sin and sickness are not qualities of Soul, or Life, we have hope in immortality; but it would be foolish to venture beyond our present understanding, foolish to stop eating until we gain perfection and a clear comprehension of the living Spirit. In that perfect day of understanding, we shall neither eat to live nor live to eat" (p. 335).

ANTIOCH CRUSHES WAUKEGAN TEAM

Locals Get 11 to 2 Victory Over Keller Cartage Aggregation Last Sunday

The Antioch baseball team won another victory last Sunday in the Lake County Amateur League by walloping the Keller Cartage outfit 11 to 2. For five innings the game was a pitcher's battle between "Bill" Steininger and "Skinny" Vasilus but the home boys started to hit in the sixth, driving Vasilus to the showers, and continued to attack Vepley and Navickas, getting 14 hits, 4 of which were doubles, and 11 runs. The losers played fairly good ball, considering their youth, and should develop a great team by next year.

Bill Steininger, local high school star, was on the mound for Antioch and gave a splendid exhibition of crossfire pitching. He struck out 16 and gave only 4 hits and 3 passes, and would have had a shutout to his credit had it not been for an error.

Harold Sullivan, one of the greatest sluggers in the league, led the hitting for the locals with 3 hits. W. Steininger, Hardin, Simpson, and Halwas each made 2 hits and Keulman and Lasco each got a single and a walk.

The team played good ball as a whole, only 2 errors being marked against them. Some of the regulars were absent but the substitutes stepped in and played like veterans.

Antioch are the present holders of third place in the league and, while they still have a mathematical chance of finishing first, they are too far behind the leaders to displace the leaders with only 6 more games to be played. The doers have it that they are doing very well to be in third position, considering the fact that the breaks certainly have not been coming their way.

Avon to Be Here Next

Next Sunday the Avon crew of sluggers will appear here. They walloped Antioch in good shape earlier in the season but the locals are going out to get their sweet revenge in this game. While Avon is quite low in the standings the team is a good one and the Avonites are liable to come through with a victory any time.

The Antioch boys are hitting the ball in last year's form, when they had one of the best hitting teams in this county. Lasco, Morley and Simpson have each had the distinction of leading at different times but Sullivan, last year's champion, is now on top with a fine average of .408, most of his hits going for extra bases. He has hit 599 or better in the last 7 games. Seven players now average 300 or better for the season so far.

INTRODUCTORY

For many years Sneed, faithful butler to Peter Milman, in the quiet old mansion on lower Fifth avenue, had watched his employer go through all the city's daily papers and carefully clip items and news articles. Later these clippings would be arranged systematically with thousands of others held in the library in steel-lined drawers, securely locked. Sneed and Milman had grown old together. Each was dependent upon the other and apparently as much a part of a past generation as the old house in which they lived was representative of the former aristocracy of its section of the city.

Sneed wondered why his employer, who had withdrawn from the world and seemed to live only among his books, pictures and fine collection of antique objects of art, should have been so eager to keep in touch with active affairs through the newspapers. Had the butler realized the careful and thorough system Milman's work, he would have known those clippings represented a more complete bureau of the lives, histories, crimes and other statistics of a majority of the citizens of Manhattan island than could have been found within the archives of the police department or any professional detective agency.

CHAPTER I

It was characteristic of Peter Milman that he should bear the shock of the second of his life's tragedies with no visible symptom of emotion.

The first of these blows had been dealt him twenty-five years before. He had suffered it in this same richly furnished room of his house in Lower Fifth avenue. Sneed, the butler, who had just handed him the morning papers, had brought him a quarter of a century ago—the letter in which his wife told him she had gone away and would not return.

The second blow swept away his comfortable fortune. At fifty, without near relatives and long estranged from old friends, Peter Milman would be compelled to move from the house in which he had been born—the house where he hoped to die—to mix with the world he had forgotten, among people he had grown to distrust.

The three morning papers Sneed placed before him, although they varied somewhat in their telling of Hazen Brewer's failure, had substantially the same account of it.

Brewer's liabilities were fifteen million dollars. His assets were given as less than five thousand dollars. Somewhere, sandwiched among these vast debts, was Peter Milman's modest million.

The butler, sensing ill news from the hastily read captions, grew relieved when he saw his employer take out his pocket-sissors and begin to clip such extracts from the papers as interested him. Later these clippings would be arranged systematically with the thousands of others which during long years Milman had gathered. In the library, steel-lined drawers, carefully locked, held the harvest of these gleanings.

At three o'clock Peter Milman came down the stairs and selected a cane. He was dressed as though he were going to pay an afternoon call. He was one of those slight, small-boned men so often seen in the dwindling families of races near extinction. His smartly cut coat, his immaculate silk hat and distinguished cane made him seem, from a rear view, a boyish figure. It was when one saw the pale, lined face, the tired eyes, and the thin supercilious mouth, that one realized this was a man to whom the world has long since seemed empty vanity. On the whole, Peter Milman presented the appearance of one to whom familiarity would be distasteful and friendship the slow growth of years.

He was on his way to see his lawyer and find out how he stood financially. He felt almost certain that he had fallen with Hazen Brewer. Not for more than twenty years had Peter Milman been so much disturbed. But he went giving up his home. The idea was intolerable.

He entered the private office of Herman Loddon as one assured of his attention and certain of his welcome. Loddon, who owed so much to Milman, would be able to supply him with the information he desired.

The first direct intimation of the difference between a millionaire and a poor man was given him as he entered Loddon's room. Loddon remained seated. Hitherto he had risen clumsily to his feet at sight of his distinguished client and with awkward gestures motioned him to the seat of honor. And his face had been wreathed with smiles. For the first time Peter Milman saw the man Herman Loddon as he really was. Loddon hated him, and had always hated him. There could be no other explanation of his lack of courtesy and the sneering smile with which he greeted his client. For a quarter-century he had worn a disarming smile. Hazen Brewer's failure had swept away the necessity for using it any more. Things, then, were desperate.

Milman's manner was still as loftily courteous as ever.

"I hope you have been able to find out the extent of Mr. Brewer's misfortunes," he said.

"Misfortunes!" Loddon cried. "His crimes, you mean."

"I am not asking you to prejudice my friend," Peter Milman said quietly. "I want to know if the morning papers are correct in stating that his entire fortune has disappeared."

"They are," Loddon answered with an appearance of satisfaction, "and as you wouldn't take my advice about your investments, your money has gone too. I tell you, Milman, you've only got what I prophesied a million times."

Milman! Never before had Herman Loddon presumed so much. Loddon's father had been the Milman coachman at their country place at Hastings years before. When he had been killed in a runaway accident, Peter Milman, the elder, had taken charge of the son's education and had eventually set him up in practice and given him his first case.

"Then nothing is left?" Milman asked.

"Not a cent. You're luckier than Brewer is, because you've got a valuable lot on Fifth avenue, and there are fifty men waiting to make you an offer for it and put a big building where that museum of yours stands."

"Have You Always Hated Me, Loddon?"

Milman said nothing. He allowed Loddon's sneer at his home to pass. Loddon did not know that, when Hazen Brewer incurred the penalty of great financial interests, and was so hardy pressed for money, he had come by night to Milman and begged in utter desperation for a loan. It was Hazen Brewer who had arranged the mortgage on the Milman home. It was Brewer alone who had profited by the affair. And this mortgage was shortly to fall due, and there was no money to pay it.

Peter Milman could have sold the house and lot and retired to some other place in relative comfort until the end of his life had he been less obstinately desirous of remaining where he had been born.

"You can't stay there, if that's what you are trying to figure out," Loddon said brutally. "The taxes are heavy and you have some outstanding debts. My account, for instance. Sell it and live in Italy is my advice." He yawned rudely.

Peter Milman's question turned his red face a deeper hue.

"Have you always hated me, Loddon?"

The lawyer did not answer immediately. This hate of his was a complex thing, less the result of a deep injury than of a thousand envies. He had always resented Milman's discriminations when social functions were still a part of his life. It is true that he had shared many times in the Milman house, but his wife had never been asked there. He came to understand in the end that he was asked because Peter Milman found it a less tedious business than going to Loddon's office.

It was this fancied slight to his wife which most angered the lawyer. She was a social climber, and the magic of the Milman name was a tradition in New York. Her husband, ashamed of his obscure origin, had claimed to have been at school with Peter Milman, and Mrs. Loddon felt that, were he to insist, she could be a guest in the envied home.

Loddon hated Milman because, despite his unwise boasting, he knew he had never convinced Milman of his importance.

"Always," he said slowly, with a rush of relief at being at last able to voice his emotions. "Yes, I hated you when my father drove you to school and I couldn't get either inside with you or on the box with him. I've hated you for your friends and the way you've expected me to come when you felt like calling. Loddon laughed sneeringly. "But that's all done with. I'm on top and only pity you now."

"I think I prefer the former emotion," Milman murmured.

"In future," Loddon said majestically. "I shall have too many big things to attend to to have time for you. I'll turn your affairs over to my managing clerk."

"Thank you," Milman said, rising. "I shall not come again. Send in your bill at once. You have been loyal to our interests, and that is why we employed you." Peter Milman passed over the Loddon outburst of hate as though it had not interested him.

Herman Loddon watched him depart with the feeling that his triumph had not been as assured as he could have wished. He had won no look of fear or apprehension from the man he hated. Perhaps, after all, there was something about men like Milman different from him. Then the thought of his two millions reassured him and he lumbered to the window and watched his former client cross the road. The great limousine appeared would presently take Herman Loddon to his lavishly appointed apartment, where he would dine largely. He pictured Milman's solitary and dismal meal. There would not be many more for him in the family home on Lower Fifth avenue. The Patrician age was gone.

Peter Milman reached his home without encountering anyone who knew him. Fashionable New York with her residences and clubs had long passed on her northward way. Those few houses which, like his own, were still owned by their builders' families, were mostly unoccupied save for a few weeks in the year. With these people Milman had now nothing in common. He had rejected their overtures. They spoke of him with pity, almost with contempt. A legend of eccentricity grew up about him and presently gave way to rumors of mental deterioration.

Sneed, who concerned himself greatly with the sudden change in his employer's habits, saw him return with obvious relief. Sneed had read the papers and realized the extent of Hazen Brewer's troubles. He wished he dared ask Mr. Milman if he, too, were badly hit. Peter Milman's face told him nothing. Nor was his customary manner changed.

"I am going over the upper rooms after luncheon," said Milman. "Please see that they are in order."

The upper rooms. It was in these spacious chambers that the old furniture was stored about which experts raved. The six rooms were arranged as a museum. Milman moved from place to place. Everything had its definite association. He stopped before an Eighteenth century card table covered with seal skin. On this table, in 1745, a Peter Milman had lost a thousand pounds on a cut of cards with a blue-blood of South Carolina. Those six chairs, called "banister-backed by their creator, Heppelwhite, had been made to order for a Milman.

There was one room devoted to the Dutch furniture that had come to the Milmans from a marriage with a Van Slyter heiress. Peter Milman bent down to look at a Dutch church stool which a Van Slyter servant had carried to a place of worship two hundred years before. It was black in color, and on one side bore a picture of the Last Judgment and some appropriate verses.

"I don't read Dutch," Milman observed, "but I remembered the translation. Listen, Sneed, it may do you good."

"Certainly, sir," said Sneed respectfully.

"The Judgment of God is now prepared. There is still time, leave unadorned. The plow will be separated from the wicked. God's wisdom encircles the Universe."

"Very true, Mr. Peter, sir," said Sneed. There was a look on his employer's face that he did not understand, something hard and ruthless.

"There are some of the wicked I should very much like to separate from the plow without waiting for post-mortem judgments. I am not sure that such an act would not be a logical way of acquiring merit. I take it, Sneed, that in your essence you are law-abiding?"

"Always," said Sneed with conscious rectitude. "In that respect, Mr. Peter, I'm like you."

"A very admirable frame of mind," said Milman.

Sneed had rarely known him comment on any of the exhibits before. To day it seemed he had a word for everything.

"On this settle with folding candlestick," he observed, "Benjamin Milman fell asleep in the Revolutionary war and was captured by a redoubtable major, who gave him liberty owing to his pretty skill on a six-string bass viol. The viol is in the next room. These three mahogany pieces," he said, pausing before a six-legged high case of drawers, "once belonged to the man whom Aaron Burr speaks of as my friend Hamilton whom I killed."

"It was my intention to bequeath them to the Metropolitan," Milman frowned a little. "It will seem like breaking faith with the dead."

Sneed did not yet know that the man he served was insolvent and that all these relics which told so much of the Milman history must come under the hammer. "You can leave me," Milman said, after a pause. "I want to remain here some time."

At six o'clock Sneed ventured to disturb Peter Milman. During the hours he had passed downstairs Sneed thought he understood what his employer meant. He had put things together. He believed Peter Milman was cataloguing his treasures. Hazen Brewer's failure had been as complete as the evening papers proclaimed.

Peter Milman's manner vaguely disturbed his butler. There was a smile where usually mild cynicism reigned. Almost it seemed as if the sword which Milman held had imbued him with swashbuckling courage of that hard-drinking, roystering Oliver Milman who had been a notable figure in the Colonial wars.

"I am not sure," Peter Milman observed, "that man made a good exchange when he put aside the sword and depended upon law and its chicaneries."

"So I've heard, Mr. Peter, sir," Sneed returned, understanding nothing.

"I was not aware the view was so generally accepted," said his employer. "The man who owned this literally carved his way to fortune. He had fought in Europe before he came here. His God-fearing brother, my own ancestor, disowned him publicly in church on Christmas Sunday and lost all his cattle and barns by lightning the next summer. I have always had a sneaking fondness for Captain Oliver."

Sneed followed his master down the broad stairs. The butler regarded himself as a built-in feature of the mansion. He knew that to seek work in the bustling world outside would be repellent and bewildering. He realized that Peter Milman and he were two lonely, friendless men. And they had lost their home because one of them had trusted implicitly in Hazen Brewer. What a price to pay for friendship, Sneed mused unhappily.

He did not understand how it was the other seemed in no way depressed. Sneed was not to know that Captain Oliver's shade had whispered courage into the ear of the last of the Milmans.

AUTO ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO TWO BOYS

Frank and Arthur Dreesman of Burlington Meet Death As Cars Collide on Road

Arthur and Frank Dreesman of Burlington were the victims last Thursday evening of an auto accident which proved fatal to them. The boys had gone for a short ride late in the evening in an effort to cool off after the excessive heat of the day. The accident occurred just beyond the Winter Gardens east of New Munster. As they approached the corner a car was stalled in the road and Frank, who was driving, turned aside so as to avoid it. At that moment a car coming in from the opposite direction hit them and the three cars were piled in a wreck on the road. Frank Dreesman was killed instantly, but Arthur was taken to the hospital at Kenosha by the first car that arrived at the scene of the accident. He was so severely injured that no hope was held out for his recovery and he passed away Friday. The car which collided with them had five women in it and all of them were hurt although none fatally.

Funeral services for the two young men were held at St. Mary's Catholic church at Burlington Monday with interment at the cemetery there.

Both Frank who was 23 years of age, and Arthur who was 19 were lifelong residents of Burlington where they lived with their parents, and their sudden death came as a shock to their wide circle of friends there. They were nephews of Barney Naber of this place, who, together with his daughter, Mrs. Lester Osmond, went to Burlington on Monday to be present at the funeral. They were known to many in Antioch as they were employed here as masons during the construction of the high school addition, the bank
